

With over 15,000 World Bank books, chapters, reports, journal articles, working papers and data series from World Development Indicators, the World Bank eLibrary is one of the most comprehensive collections on international development. Publications and research include a wide range of global and regional topics with an emphasis on developing and emerging economies.

The World Bank eLibrary offers libraries and researchers a number of conveniences including...

- Fast and easy discovery and access to content
- Key country and regional data from World Development Indicators
- Personalization and time-saving tools for users
- Services and benefits for librarians

eLibrary is used by the world's top academic institutions, international and governmental agencies, think tanks, multinational corporations, and NGOs.

► Benefits For Users

World Bank eLibrary offers many valuable tools for facilitating research such as:

Downloadable data from World Development Indicators on countries and regions within the same user-friendly platform.

Full text (HTML) for all chapters since 2014, eliminating the need to download files.

Easy exporting of citations for use with major reference management software.

Chapter-level search results for most eBook titles published since 2010, in addition to book-level access.

Find, filter, and access content in multiple ways including by region, country, topic, and content type.

Free ePub files for reading eLibrary content on iPad, Kobo, Kindle or other e-book readers or tablets.

Saving searches and favorite content in personal accounts for quick access and retrieval at a later date.

Customized content alerts via email or RSS to stay on top of the latest research added to the eLibrary.

Social media tracking of titles on Mendeley, Facebook, Twitter, news media and other sources through Altmetric.

Off campus mobile access for iOS devices, Android and Blackberry.

Convenient links to related datasets, blogs, and other helpful World Bank online resources.

No restrictions on downloading, printing, or sharing of World Bank-copyrighted content.

Services for Librarians

The eLibrary offers many valuable features, services, and benefits for librarians including:

Indexing in major discovery services including WorldCat, Primo, EBSCO A to Z, Summon and others.

Easy integration with library systems such as federated search, OPACs, and other library-specific tools (e.g. CrossRef).

Institutional branding on the eLibrary site, so patrons are aware their library has paid for their access.

COUNTER-compliant usage statistics and self-generated reports directly from the eLibrary platform.

Downloadable MARC records & metadata updated on a monthly basis.

Email alerts when new MARC records and metadata files are added.

Free online and on-site training upon request, plus online video tutorials to increase awareness and usage.